NOTES: 1) The first two tables, above, are differentiated by the 0.01" category, the first table defining amounts of ≥ 0.01 " and < 0.01 " (no measurable precipitation), the second table defining amounts of ≥ 0.01 " and ≤ 0.01 " (including any amounts of 0.01"). This is because a dry streak doesn't have to be defined solely as "no measurable precipitation" and 0.01" isn't an impactful amount. The other tables include various criteria of up to 1.00" of precipitation.

2) Italicized data indicates ties, with the most recent occurrences listed first chronologically.

3) Run Period with this background color is a current streak.
